

Afternoon Tea Menu

The introduction of afternoon tea, a quintessentially English tradition, is usually credited to Anne Seventh Duchess of Bedford in the early 19th century.

The Duchess is said to have complained of “having that sinking feeling” during the late afternoon and the solution, at least for her, was a pot of tea and a light snack, taken privately in her boudoir during the afternoon.

Here at the Chesterfield, why not take the time to indulge yourself with a little bit of British tradition
